

Performance Lifestyle:

The 'ideal' swimming parent...

1. Stays relaxed and positive during competition and is equally supportive regardless of the outcome.

2. Understands the demands of the swimming.

3. Gives their child space and talks about other things after a bad performance.

4. Works closely with the coach and leaves the analysis of the race or competition to them. Any analysis you do have you talk through with the coach.

5. Sees beyond winning and losing and recognises the performance and the experience for their child.

6. Believes in their child but is also realistic about where they are and where they could go.

7. Gives their child ownership and responsibility by allowing their child's opinion and thoughts to be heard and valued.

8. Is aware of the damage of self-fulfilling prophecies such as— "You never win when its close", "You're too slow" "You don't have that winning mentality ". These can help to create that situation in the future.

9. Keeps in mind the bigger picture and understands why they are investing in their child's sport and all the benefits their child get from it.

10. Recognises that they are a parent first and foremost and that sometimes, that is all their child wants and needs them to be.
